

Is it okay to leave gaps between photovoltaic panels

Overview

The gap between solar panel rows should be around five to six inches, but it is also recommended that you leave one to three feet of space between every second or third row. This is because maintenance workers need enough room to get on the roof and make repairs whenever necessary. However, an often overlooked but crucial factor when installing solar panels is the optimal distance between them. Solar panels are user-friendly devices that can easily harness renewable energy at its best. Formula: $\text{Spacing} = \text{Height} / \tan(\text{Solar Altitude})$. However, in some scenarios, especially where.
