

Western European photovoltaic power station energy storage regulations

Overview

The European Union (EU) Battery Regulation 2025 is set to bring significant changes to the energy storage industry, affecting storage developers across the region. Understanding the key compliance requirements and implications is crucial for companies operating in the renewable. and the lessons learned from the 2022 energy crisis. These policies focus. This document is a publication by the Joint Research Centre (JRC), the European Commission's science and knowledge service. It aims to provide evidence-based scientific support to the European policymaking process. The contents of this publication do not necessarily reflect the position or opinion. Battery storage deployment is accelerating rapidly in Europe while significant regulatory adjustments are underway in France and the EU, making this a critical moment for companies to understand and follow the evolving legal landscape before committing to projects. One thing is certain, battery energy storage systems - from residential to commercial & industrial (C&I) to utility-scale - are the absolute short cut to delivering the flexible, electrified energy h of newly deployed BESS. The EU must create the right conditions to foster battery deployment, by improving permitting, fixing tariff barriers, strengthening supply chains, and ensuring safe, sustainable storage integration across the energy system. BRUSSELS, Belgium (28 January 2026): The EU installed 27.
